

SEWER WIZZARD FORETELLS OF AN UNFATHOMABLE FUTURE

The world of today is tumultous and scary, seemingly neverchanging and giving us no room for security. Bilgewater Brimesworth knows this better than any man.

Wizard by trade, lizard by blood, he is known by the town for living in the sewers and by his beautiful hat. Life has not been easy for him, most of his home has been flooded by the neighbouring Red River, and he has to live off measly magic tricks for children to make a living. Though things are changing for this serpentine man as he has been endowed a prophency from the ancients! It's been 100 years since one has been recorded. though it does not promise prosperity, but echoes A TERRIBLE DOOM!

“Bilge and brime will raise the bridge,
Follow no mage, pledge to no man,
rest his dreaded soul to keep thee sane,
from God's dreaded straits”

Many theorize this means a flood will come about, unprecedented in its' magnitude. Many also wonder about this 'dreaded soul' that is mentioned. Some assume it is the king, while others fullheartedly believe that it is Bilgewater Brimesworth himself. Nothing can be explained as of now, but we must all hope for a better future together.

Written by Agnes M.